
Raw reference points are historical; one run per point; differing outputs limit strict equal-workload claims.